

Honoring Life's Changes

This is a time of profound and often painful reflection by hearts that have committed to honor and love.

Together, we will move forward to remember, honor, grieve and celebrate the magnificent Soul of your loved one.

I will create a sacred space where you and your family will be supported in the depth and privacy of your feelings.

Tender and insightful writings will embrace your loved one's true spiritual essence and offer you a deeper understanding of yourself and your loss.

Your Ceremony will be presented with the reverence, respect, joy and truth in which your relationship found its meaning.

Trans-Denominational – What does that mean?

Beyond the concepts of all beliefs, there lies a truth for and about each of us. We were created in the image and likeness of the One Supreme Being called by many as God, or as Spirit, Universal Intelligence, Creator, Buddha, Krishna...or another name that has meaning for you. Whatever name is used for that which created all life; we are a part of that whole and whatever spiritual or religious practices exist - we honor the truth and wholeness of all creation; we give voice to the gift of love and life given and the gift of love and life received. I acknowledge and present the belief that as Spiritual Beings having a human experience, each of us has lived a life expressing as best we knew how - done so through our own unique style, sense of perfection in the moment, integrity and authenticity.

My trans-denominational ceremonies transcend human belief as I choose to remember and express the truth of your loved one - one with Spirit, one with all people and one with all of Creation.

A ROSE

A rose once grew, budded and blossomed in God's free light;
Watered and fed by the morning dew, shedding its sweetness day and night.

As it grew and blossomed fair and tall, slowly rising to loftier height,
It came to a crevice in the wall, through which there shone a beam of light;

Onward it crept, with added strength; with never a thought of fear or pride,
It followed the light through the crevice length, and unfolded itself on the other side.

The light, the dew and broadening view, were found the same as they were before, And it lost itself in beauties new, breathing its fragrance more and more;

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve and make our courage faint or fall?
Nay, let us hope and faith receive, the rose still grows beyond the wall,
Just as it did in days of yore, just as it does on the other side, Just as it will for evermore.
